

Biography:

HYBRIDISM started from the experience and influence of a one-man project. This project evolved later into a real live band. Founded by Jeffrey Ricaille, who started writing songs exclusively on 8 string guitars, started developing the whole bunch of songs after having met the young talented Lucas Billon on drums. The duo was joined by Marc Muller on bass and some time later, after finishing their songs they completed the band with Alexis Kaupp on guitars.

Trying their tracks with some vocalists first, they finally decided to keep it as a fully instrumental band. After some months of adjustments, the pre-production of their first album was done. At the end of June 2018, the album was recorded in Czech Republic at Babylon Studio, with some help of their friend and great sound engineer Tomas Raclavsky (mastermind of Modern Day Babylon and Babylon Studio's owner). With the Final mix in their hands, they came back home and are now preparing to release the album, which should happen early 2019.
