

HD

and the

CCR

Tribute
Band

the original remake of
the unforgettable songs
and tribute to a famous voice and a great
songwriter

Seldom in the history of Rock music has there been such a tight connection between a band and it's audience as with CCR in it's heyday, from 1967 to 1972, when John Fogerty and company were one of the most popular bands in the USA. Although the band came from Berkley, California, very close to the epicenter of "flower power" in San Francisco, CCR's music reflected deep roots in the Rythm & Blues of the Mississippi Delta, mixed with Southern Rock, Country, and traditional Folk music influences.

CCR's music, that is to say John C. Fogerty's compositions and arrangements, went against the grain of it's contemporary mainstream Rock and Pop releases: despite this, it remained pure Rock'n'Roll - timeless, straight-ahead, no compromise, no excuses, no sequencers, no drum machines, nothing digital.

It is to this philosophy that h.d. and the ccr tribute band has devoted itself. This Sound - one that makes the listener happy to rediscover, a "diamond in the rough" amongst all the plastic and silicon of today - is also familiar to the younger generation thanks to many cover versions in recent chart history. This Sound, this music, this feeling, doesn't come out of an Atari or any other computer. It is hand made by musicians who understand their craft. No virtuosos, no "ego trippers", not your average, neatly pigeonholed music, just the crystal clear transparency of Guitar, Bass, and Drums.

Honest music needs no gimmicks, it requires real ability, and true belief in itself, but beware! - turning back the hands of time can tug at the heart-strings! h.d. and the ccr tribute band however can not be held responsible for any attacks of sentimentality, heartaches and the like! Thank you John C. Fogerty, thank you h.d. and the ccr tribute band - it's only Rock'n'Roll, and we like it!