Since autumn 2009, The Psychonauts have quaked venues with their "Hoochie Coochie Trash'a'Billy" sound.

Their explosive mix between 50's Rockabilly, 60's Garage Trash, 70's Punk and 80's Psychobilly sounds like it may have come from outer space. But The Psychonauts actually hail from Basel (Switzerland) and have taken their name from the patients of the discoverer of LSD, the Basler Albert Hofmann.

Soon after the band formed they were playing with such Psychobilly legends as: The Meteors, Demented Are Go, Mad Sin, The Frantic Flintstones among others. Tremendous T. (Vox/Guitar), Weirdy Beardy (Upright Bass) and Oily (Drums) have been on the scene for many years and know what's what.

Their live show is especially impressive, consisting of original material and a couple of cover versions of Rockabilly classics, enhanced by their own unique style. Right from the first second, The Psychonauts let loose their "Hoochie Coochie Trash'a'Billy Stomp" on the audience, with the motto "Wreck it and shake it up!"

So never miss a chance to see them, wherever it says
"Coming from outer space, The Psychonauts are in town"!
