"MAGEFA create a Death Metal sound that is straight forward and they stick to their guns and inspirations." - Metal Temple

"Erbarmen, zu spät, die Hessen kommen. Die Frankfurter Jung zocken auf ihrer zweiten EP Death Metal der alten amerikanischen Schule. Es gibt sehr viele groovige Parts, aber auch Geknüppel und melodische Einsprengsel zu hören." - Time For Metal

"On a ici un death metal propre, bien exécuté, le son est au top. Exenteration est un album bien mené, nickel, notre trio allemand n'a de leçons à recevoir de personne, la musique il l'a connue et la récite sans aucun accroc." - Soil Chronicles

With their most recent album, "Exenteration" (2021), and songs like "Pathology Calls" (2023), "Overdose" (2022) and "Back To The Front" (2022), the German metal band Magefa has been making waves in the Metal and Death Metal music industry. They are an artist to keep an eye out for in the future thanks to their distinctive sound and constant devotion to the genre.

Magefa, a death metal band hailing from Germany, burst onto the scene in 2014 with a mission to unleash their unique blend of intense and brutal music upon the world. The band's name, meaning "plague" in Hebrew, perfectly encapsulates their dark and menacing sound that has captivated fans around the globe.

Founded by Kevin Grams (vocals, guitar), Kai Or (drums), and Thorsten Fay (bass guitar), Magefa wasted no time in making their mark on the death metal scene. In 2019, they released their debut album "New Era of Darkness," which showcased their uncompromisingly heavy sound and a penchant for crafting captivating and haunting melodies within their chaotic compositions.

"New Era of Darkness" featured tracks like the title song "New Era of Darkness" and "Multiple Organ Harvesting," which demonstrated Magefa's ability to create intense and brutal music while maintaining a sense of musicality and intricacy. The album received positive reviews from both fans and critics alike, solidifying their place in the death metal community.

In 2021, Magefa returned with their highly anticipated sophomore album "Exenteration." This release continued to push the boundaries of their sound, showcasing their evolution as musicians and songwriters. Tracks like "Instrument Inside" and "Abdominal Section" displayed their technical prowess and ability to create dark and atmospheric compositions that left a lasting impression on listeners.

However, amidst the global pandemic, tragedy struck the band when bassist Thorsten Fay departed from Magefa. Despite this setback, the band pushed forward with determination and perseverance, eager to continue their musical journey. In 2023, the band welcomed Andreas Muttscheller on bass guitar and Nicolas Perez on guitar, injecting new energy and creativity into their lineup.

Magefa's dedication to their craft, relentless drive, and unwavering passion for death metal have propelled them to new heights within the scene. With their unique and infectious sound, Magefa continues to captivate audiences and leave a lasting impact on the world of extreme music. As they forge ahead, there's no doubt that their legacy will only continue to grow, solidifying their place as a force to be reckoned with in the world of death metal.
